Most expensive kpop music video 2020

What I did: I made a lego video stop-motion music. The video includes Adeles Rollin of the Deep Singing Singer accompanied by Legos Anime. For example, Ade's mouth moves through the music. Lego's was the coreography of the music. How I did it: I created the video using a method called Stop-Motion Animation. It is an animation technique to make a physically manipulated object appear to move on its own. To do this I took a picture of a lego minifigur, moved it a little, and took another picture. Eventually when I had enough photos, I played them all together, and it appeared that the lego minifigur had moved on his own! For animation in the mouth, I used a photo editing software to delete the original mouth and put a different one on instead. I put a different mouth on for each photo, trying to get the mouth to line up with the lyrics' word. After all the pictures were played for the right amount of time, and everything seemed to match up, I uploaded the video to YouTube.Ki where I did it: I worked on the video at home. What I learned: I learned how easy it was to animated things like Legos. Also, this project was a good way for me to learn how to animate mouths in Lego Minifigures. Although it took a while, A learned a lot about the stop-motion animation process. Participate in The Make-To-Learn Youth Contest every article in this page has been cured by an ELLE Decor editor. Aug. 28, 2015 From room and bathroom to hotel balcony, these are the spots that brought popular songs to life. And with the MTV Video Music Awards coming, we are taking a look at the locations where these well-known videos, both old and new, have been created. 1 of 9 Taylor Swift, Empty Space - Oheka Castle Oheka Castle is a 100,000-square-foot house in Huntington, New York, on the north shore of Long Island. It was built in the early 1900s as a vacation home for investment financial and philanthrop Otto Hermann Kahn. Today, the isolated assets are a 32-room hotel with popular wedding places for celebrities. Several music videos, shows and movies were filmed at the regional location. Most notably, Blank Spaces by Taylor Swift took place at the Castle Wall, and is now nominated for Best Female Video and Best Video Pop at the VMAs. 2 of 9 Not only do the home in this video look super relaxed and glamorous, it's also for sale. You can float like Ed Sheeran for a mere $15 million, which, when compared to the original asking price of $26 million, is not too bad for 9,500 square feet of marble and gold decorations. Don't be nominated for two VMAs, including Best Coreography. 3 of 9 Here's another music video house you can buy now, and this one is a steal of $8.7 million. Britney Kirchner filmed her Bch video in this white, mentioning contemporary and large glass windows. The homeowner is steerily recognised in the video but if you've been stuck up tune and tell me the lights at night, you might be able to channel your inner Gross. Although Working Bch wasn't nominated for any VMAs last year, some claim its vehemement was snubbed. 4 of 9 Nick Jonas, Chen - The Alexandria Hotel Alexandria hotel was built in the early 1900s as a luxury hotel in the then-center of Los Angeles. As the business district moved west, the hotel discovered and eventually became low-income income housing. Its historic bathroom was maintained, however, and it is a popular movie place due to its lack of occupation. Chain, who filmed in the hotel, is nominated for Best Video Male. 5 of 9 Miami homes are described as ultimate property entertainment and is currently on the market for $20 million. The best video song ever music doesn't explore much of the home, so the boy band missed out on the opportunity to structure the things on a private rooftop pile with an infinite pool and waterfall, among other things. The Kardashians are among the other celebrities who visited this Miami mission (they shot their Christmas cards here in 2012). The best song ever won best song of the summer at the 2013 VMAs. 6 in 9 Spice girls, Wannabe - The Midland Grand Hotel follows five-star hotels, luxury hotels in St Pancras, London was home to the video to break successful Wannabe video, filmed in 1996. Now known as st Pancras Renaissance London Hotel, the original building opened in 1873 and has gone through several renovations. Despite some concerns that the would not be well received in the United States, Wannabe won best dance video at the 1997 VMAs. 7 of 9 This incredibly solid home outside of Los Angeles was designed by the same architect responsible for the Kennedy and Pepperdine University Center. Located on top of a hill, it has 360 degree views of the adjacent preserving nature. Other productions have been filmed at this home including Dream Girls and Men Mad, but videos hitting Usher's are the most recognizable odds. Burn was nominated in 2004 for Best R&B Video at the VMAs. 8 of 9 The Leading Singer of Florence + The Car chose its own house to serve as the backdrop of the Wreck video ship. The colorful, vintage-stuffed South London home took a dark turn for her starring role, but Welch let Vogue look around the modest decoration two years ago when she bought it, so evidence of her pricey decoration does exist. Vintage Wreck is nominated for Best Rock Video. 9 at 9 like Welch, Beyoncé filmed this 2008 video in one of her own houses. The five-story SoHo townhouse is barely featured though, as the majority of the video shows close-up beyoncé shots with actor Michael Ealy. A few years after Halo was premier, the house was available to rent for $100,000 per month – a small price to pay where Queen Bey sets. Although Halo wasn't nominated for any VMAs, Beyoncé has been nominated in nine categories for the Single Ladies the same year. Below, Beautiful Homes has rounded up a music video list that features some of the best homes we've ever seen. Whether you're in castles, castles, mentioned, or châteaux, our list has something for everyone, including houses that have acted as backdrops to the likes of Taylor Swift, Dreke, the Jonas Brothers, and Lana Del Rey. As the word goes, there's no place like home - and we really wish that three clicks in a few clicks, Pairs of red shoes were the only thing that keeps us being transported to these music video houses now. Advertising - Continue Reading below Taylor Swift, Blank Space Has a reason to why Taylor Swift's music video for blank space has more than 2.5 billion views - its visual looks on the top and affluent in a way that fully suits the fascinating Swift lyrics. This award-winning music video was mainly filmed at Oheka Castle, the second largest home in the U.S. built in for financial and philanthropist Otto Hermann Kahn, in 1919 Gold Coast was designed by Delano & Cox, Aldrich and Fields by the brothers Olmsted (their son of Frederick Law Olmsted of Central Park Fame). Oheka is currently a wedding and event venue (and hotel) where celebrities like Kevin Jonas (who are also on that list) have gotten married. If we ever get a chance to visit Oheka, we promise by dropping the decoration of the pump, supple portraits are perfectly painted in ruin, and have a messy, mascara-run in front of a marble mantel. WATCH The video, Tootsie Drake's numerous own mentions Toronto takes center stage of her video for Tootsie Slide, and now we know why she kept singing just holding on, we're going home to one of her other hit songs – we'd rush home too if we looked like this. If you're looking for even more inspirational design related to Drake after watching this video, he and his mentions also featured on the cover of ADD's 2020 AD Problems. If you need me, I'll * in my feelings * Wish This was My Home.WATCH VIDEO Jonah Brothers, Souse If You're Making a Surprise Year Comes After the Hang of Your Success Strips of Cool and You're Not Sure Where to Film Your First Music Video, a 75,000 square foot house that at over 400 years old should be the twisted. The music video begins with an established shot of the extraordinary extraordinary of Hatfield House, a thoroughly isolated Jacob just outside of London. We think it's safe to say that this home is the main attraction in this music video Jonah Fres. We also would like to parade around a stored English house in a tul ball reigned with a pack of korgis, the Queen Elizabeth II.WATCH Bazz's VIDEO, You might have heard Bazz's lyrics myself in various Turkish Tok videos in recent months, given that he went viral two years after being released, but we'd rather watch the music video accompaniment to French furniture, french-inspired furniture (and chest to sit on furniture) , ice Baroque, with detailed mold. As for the outward of this home, it has many endless elements such as Corinthians columns, rich windows, and a Mediterranean-style composite of key tiles. In the words of Bazzi himself, "I think I lost my mind"... about this house and its eye-affised design. WATCHING Iggy Azalea's video, started mentioning in Los Angeles featuring the Iggy Azalea's start is quite a feat of architecture and interior design, with its sudden entry-making and railing matching, intricate white cold crowns, and damask wallpaper. Not to mention this "fancy" home comes with dream views of lush landscaped which California is known for. And, as Iggy Azalea sings this song, her house is so big, [she] sits on tea squares and neighbours, [she] has never seen her neighbors. We wish we could relate to this lyric, but we will just have to live seriously in this video for now. WATCH VIDEO Lana Del Rey's, Born to Die Château de Fontaineau, located in France, is probably the most spectacular home in this list of grande cathedral-esque, and Lana Del Rey's incorporating into live tips , crowns its signature flower seat, and a seat-like seat really match her vision. This important work of Renaissance-style architecture (a UNESCO World Heritage Site) was home to many French monarchs, including Napoleon III, nephew of Napoleon Bonaparte. There's something we know for sure – we won't have any sadness summer if this chateau is in our sights.
